Dolforwyn Castle Montgomery Castle

Cadw 1990; Butler 1990; Pounds 1991 Dolforwyn stands on a wooded hill overlooking the fertile Severn valley, a scene so peaceful today that it is hard to picture it as one of political animosity or military action. It was built between 1273-77 by Llywelyn the Last as a forward position in his territory, and overlooking the English lordship of Montgomery.
