Half-truths are lies. The half-truth in the Church of today is that God loves the sinner, and the half lie that goes with it is that the sinner may be a full member and participant of the Church and remain in his or her sin, because God is love. Satan has a Ph.D. in confusion and deception; and the Church has another in selective misinterpretation.

If I understand you correctly, you suggest that if we go to the trouble of identifying and sifting out the lies and half-truths that form the basis of Chomsky's political writing, we can still find a few ideas of genuine worth. But I can't buy into the idea that lies and half-truths do not cloud an overall historical "clarity".
