Our stall today falls into the 2nd category. When I asked around about what was good to eat in Ang Mo Kio, this Teochew Porridge stall invariably gets mentioned but always accompanied by a warning that the snaking queue spans four shop spaces and that people start lining up for the food by 5 plus for their opening at 6.45pm!

Indian Singaporeans or Singaporean Indians – defined as persons of Indian ancestry – constitute 9.0% of the country's citizens, making them the third largest ethnic group in Singapore.. While contact with ancient India left a deep impact on Singapore's indigenous Malay culture, the mass settlement of Indians on the island only began with the founding of modern Singapore by the British in 1819.
